

BRIEF PROFILE

NASURULAI ABDULAI

MBA ((OIL & GAS MGT), BA, INTEGRATED DEVELOPMENT STUDIES))

Nasurulai is a multifaceted individual with a proven performance in transaction banking, civil society, oil & gas and educational cycles. He is articulate and has amiable interpersonal relations as well as very good leadership qualities.

While working at Fidelity Bank (Ghana) Limited, he led a project team between 2009 and 2011 to pioneer the implementation of the MTN Mobile Money service in the Ashanti, Northern, Upper East and Upper West regions of Ghana which recorded tremendous success.

During his studies at the graduate school of Coventry University, he was made a teaching assistant on the MBA in Oil and Gas management programme; a responsibility he discharged to the satisfaction of both students and authorities of the University.

In mid-2012, he was a lead consultant to Royal Dutch Shell-UK on developing re-entry strategies for the company's re-engagement in Libya's oil and gas industry.

He was also a founder of a non-profit organization (Coppod-Ghana) which undertakes socio-political research and advocates civil liberties, transparency and accountability in governance.

He has a solid background in academic research and social policy formulation; having participated in international researches including the Gallup World Poll of 2007 as research fellow.

Presently, he is a lecturer and head of the oil and gas department at Bluecrest University College-Ghana and a senior facilitator at Amitlaw Professional Development Centre-Tema. He doubles as the founder of the Africa Panel on Natural resource Governance (www.apnrg.org).

Nasurulai has a number of academic publications on international journals and an ardent advocate of empowerment of mankind. His recent publication was titled: "Ways to achieve sustainable development in the oil and gas industry in Ghana" published on the international Journal of ICT and Management in 2013. He is also a consultant to a number of universities in Ghana on development of oil and gas curricula including Regent University College and Wisconsin International University College. In 2014, he founded Oleum Ghana Limited which is an active oil service company undertaking major operations in Ghana's oil and gas industry.

Nasurulai is currently the head of corporate affairs at Enactus International (Ghana office).

He holds an MBA in Oil and Gas Management from Coventry University-UK and a Bachelor of Arts degree in Integrated Development Studies from University for Development Studies-Ghana.